

WELCOME TO A UNIQUE OPEN SEMINAR

BEYOND POOR ECONOMICS

WITH ABHIJIT BANERJEE AND ESTHER DUFLO

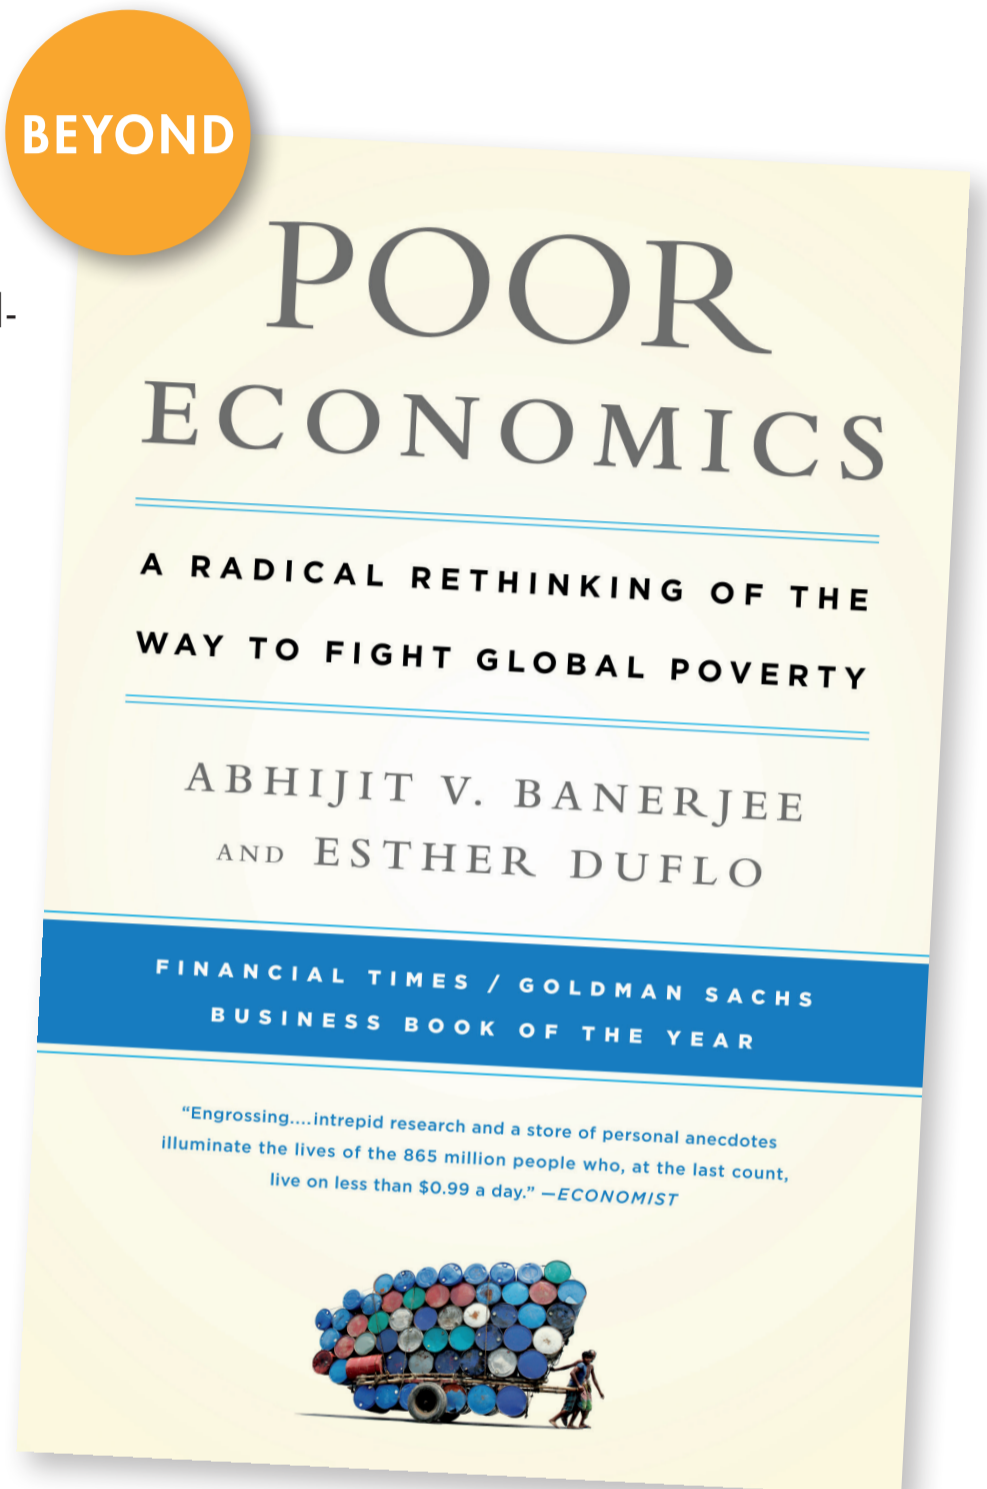

Abhijit Banerjee and Esther Duflo will build their lecture on the book Poor Economics: A Radical Rethinking of the Way to Fight Global Poverty which was rewarded the Financial Times and Goldman Sachs Business Book of the Year Award and has been translated into more than 17 languages. In this lecture they will go further beyond what is in the book.

Abhijit Banerjee and Esther Duflo are professors at the Department of Economics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. They are both highly influential people within the academic field but also for policy and development agencies.

Esther Duflo's research seeks to understand the economic lives of the poor, with the aim to help design and evaluate social policies. Duflo has received numerous academic honors and prizes.

Abhijit Banerjee's areas of research are development economics and economic theory. He has been a member of the UN Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon's High-level Panel to advise on the global development framework beyond 2015.

BEYOND

WHEN

Monday June 11 at 13.00–14.30

PLACE

Stockholm School of Economics,
Sveavägen 65

Registration for the event: Please register your attendance to Ritva.Kiviharju@hhs.se by June 8 at the latest.

