Entrepreneurship, Innovation and Development

Beijing 6-7 June 2017

A conference on Entrepreneurship, Innovation and Development will be held in Beijing on 6-7 June 2017 by the Stockholm China Economic Research Institute at Stockholm School of Economics, jointly organized by the National School of Development at Peking University.

The private sector and entrepreneurship have played an increasingly important role in China's development, especially since the early 2000s. Similarly, innovation is quickly becoming an integral part of the Chinese economy.

This conference will collect academic papers at both the micro and macro level with the aim of providing empirical evidence concerning challenges for entrepreneurship and innovation. Papers that relate to these issues are therefore especially welcome. Topics covered may include but are not limited to:

- Entrepreneurship
- Innovation
- R&D expenditures
- Institutions and entrepreneurship
- Trade and innovation
- Foreign investment and innovation
- Entrepreneurship and outward investment
- Industry clusters
- Industrial competitiveness
- Private sector development
- Economic Development

There is no conference fee for accepted presenters. The conference organizers will provide accommodation in a hotel close to the conference site as well as lunches free of charge.
