EMPLOYMENT REPORT 2014

SSE MASTER GRADUATES HAVE A WIDE SELECTION OF CAREERS

SSE graduates are very successful in launching careers. Our outstanding network of corporate partners and tradition of building strong company relations is undoubtedly one reason for this success.

The master graduates have launched their careers with some of the most popular and best-known companies in the world including H&M, McKinsey & Company, Boston Consulting Group, EY, Google, SEB, Spotify and Goldman Sachs. Both the School and the Student Association provide students with extensive opportunities to meet with employers and recruiters. An exclusive online job portal adds to those opportunities. The unique MSc Mentor program offers mentoring to all MSc students who apply. This has proven to be immensely helpful to students in their career-defining process and also very rewarding for participating mentors.

Leveraging Stockholm's well-known climate for start-ups, the incubator SSE Business Lab offers support to students wanting to start their own business.

The wide networks and industry connections of SSE's faculty open many doors for students in their job search. Students form connections with employers throughout their education as representatives of international businesses and organizations participate in SSE's education through projects, live cases, class visits and guest lectures.

We would like to offer a sincere thank you to our recruiters, alumni and corporate partners for contributing to the professional development of SSE students and graduates. We look forward to continuing to work together towards global and sustainable business success.
